NOTES

provided corn for the army". ut instituerat: "as he had made it his practice (to do every year)", referring to the words that follow; Caesar spent the winter of every year of his nine year governorship, except that of 54-53 (see V, 53, 3), conducting business in "Italy", by which he means his province of Cisalpine Gaul, between the Alps and the Rubicon, now part of Italy; he was also governor of Narbonese Gaul (the modern Provence) and Illyricum on the northern shores of the Adriatic. ad conventus agendos: "in order to hold the assizes". He spent the summer campaigning in Gaul and was not allowed to enter Italy proper during his term of office.

VOCABULARY

Diphthongs are always long, and all long vowels are marked. All other vowels can be assumed to be short, except that the quantity of some Gallic names is uncertain. Second declension nouns ending in -ius and -ium have the contracted genitive singular in Caesar, e.g. fili, imperi.
